Foreclosure and Short Sale Mold and Indoor Air Quality Evaluations

In response to the recent high volume of foreclosures and short sales of homes, Crossroads Environmental is offering mold and indoor air quality inspections of residential and commercial properties listed for short sale, bank owned, or in the foreclosure process. Many of these properties may have been vacant, vandalized, or abandoned, leaving a potential buyer at a disadvantage. Obtaining an evaluation of the interior building condition increases marketability of the property.

Crossroads Environmental's Indoor Air Quality Division consists of a nationally certified inspector with ten years of experience in the field of indoor air quality, trained scientists which minimally possess a bachelors of science or higher degree. In this challenging economic time Crossroads would like to offer our same level of services at an affordable price, tailoring assessments to potential buyers, sellers, banks, agents, and real estate professionals.

Please see our attached service packet for further pricing and service details. Please do not hesitate to contact us for further information or to schedule an appointment.
